

Ohio Animal Cruelty Reporting (by County) (as of April 10, 2020)

Find latest edition of this report at: <https://www.ohioanimaladvocates.org/oaa-developed-resources/>

Report animals in immediate danger to local law enforcement agency or 911. Some humane agencies are not on call 24/7. In such cases, local law enforcement can usually respond more quickly.

Report dogfighting or cockfighting to Humane Society of the U.S. hotline at (877) TIP-HSUS. REWARD of up to $5,000 for info leading to arrest and conviction of ANYONE involved in dogfighting or cockfighting.

Note: Ohio state law requires each county to have a dog warden; but, their scope is often limited to dog issues, and not all of them have animal abuse investigation powers. If they do enforce cruelty laws, it may only be for dogs. Some dog wardens can enforce cruelty statutes if they are also deputy sheriffs. County humane societies may have humane agents who investigate cruelty of all animals. Humane agent appointments are on file with the Probate Judge in each county, but the list may be outdated. In the absence of a readily identifiable humane agent or dog warden with cruelty enforcement powers, local police or county sheriffs are required by law to investigate.
